It was the night before Christmas and all threw our house EVERYONE was stirring. I mean, talk about crazyness. I think everyone had eaten too many Christmas cookies or candy canes or somthing. It was getting really late, and I kept looking at the chimnie, thinking that if we didn't get to sleep very soone, then Santa wood not arrive. I thought I herd pause on the roof, but no, it was just the footsteps of my brothers and sisters, all twelfth of them, still playing. Suddenly, I had an idea! I would wear them out, and they would all fall asleep. So we played and played, find the stocking, hide the candy cane, and be an elf, until finally everyone fell asleep, all underneeth the Christmas tree. And guess what, Santa did visit during the night after all!
