Journal Prompt: A Purpose in LIfe

Imagine that the world government decided that everyone had to have a career path laid out by the time he or she was 5 years old -- effective today. If you're already past that age, you will be tested to be placed along a career path, for which you seem to have talent, but for which you have no say. Your training will be provided. What kind of reaction will there be? What would happen if you took this idea to its consequences? Write a science fiction piece or a fictional news report, 10 years down the line.
